NEW ORLEANS – An Assistant Attorney General in the New York Attorney General’s office has been named as a deputy police monitor with the city of New Orleans.

Simone Levine will join the office on April 4.

A press release issued to announce the appointment, said Ms. Levine worked as a Legislative Counsel to the New York State Assembly where she drafted legislation regarding government ethics, police stops and searches and whistleblower protection.

Ms. Levine practiced as a criminal defense attorney for ten years and speaks three languages, including Spanish.

She earned a Juris Doctorate from the University Of Connecticut School Of Law and also studied at the University of Puerto Rico School of Law. Ms. Levine was an Adjunct Professor of Constitutional Law and Criminal Justice at John Jay College in New York, and later became the Director of the Community against Police Abuse in Hartford, Connecticut.
